Alco Beldan completes project in Finsbury Square

Just One Corridor Separates a Host of New Offices

Alco Beldan is pleased to announce the completion of its project at the offices of Invesco in Finsbury Square, London.

The narrow corridor is all that separates the opportunity of utilising the available space from one large area into four individual meeting rooms.

A total of six walls incorporating 32 Alco Beldan NW100 57dB rated panels each being finished in American Maple veneer can be arranged to suit the needs of the day.

Three separate stacking areas have been created on each side to accommodate the panels when not in use.
