Carron Phoenix Launches New Precision Plus Range

With excellent value for money combined with high performance and a fresh new ergonomic design, the new Precision Plus stainless steel sink range from Carron Phoenix is suited to a broad reach of customers and kitchen styles while being able to withstand the rigours of any modern day kitchen.

The new design, launched in response to customer feedback, boasts an uncluttered feel with changes made to the bowl shapes and the drainer pattern without losing any of the capacious bowl sizes. The slim ledge at the back of the sink neatly houses the tap, while the improved Carron Phoenix branding adds to the sink's look and feel.

Extremely price competitive, the Precision Plus range encompasses three models – the Precision Plus 90 which is a compact sink ideal for studio kitchens or utility rooms; the Precision Plus 100 which offers an extra-large single bowl measuring 430 x 420 x 165mm which still fits neatly into a 600mm cabinet; and the Precision Plus 150 which boasts the same robust properties as the 90 and 100 but is the perfect sink for the kitchen with its 1½ bowls (shown).

Manufactured from high quality stainless steel, Precision Plus is sold with an easy peel protective film coating which helps prevent scratching on installation. Accessories available with the range include a d-shaped chopping board which fits snugly over the bowl. As with all Carron Phoenix sinks, the Precision Plus comes with a lifetime guarantee.
