Causeway expands presence in India

Causeway, the leading supplier of software and services for the built environment, has extended its presence in India by creating a new sales and marketing team in Bangalore. Causeway has been operating in India since 2008 and the new sales office will be located within the company's existing research, development and innovation centre.

The sales operation will be managed by Mr Khatib Hashim, who recently joined Causeway from RIB software. Khatib brings a wealth of experience in the application of innovative software solutions for the construction sector and has managed sales and operations within India and the Middle East for the past 7 years in his previous role.

Causeway has witnessed a number of existing international customers that have already expanded into India and has been supporting these clients in their expansion.

Paul Madeira, Executive Vice President for Causeway, commented: "We are delighted to create a regional presence to support our new and existing customers in India. As one of the fastest urbanising countries in the world, India is on a huge push to upgrade and develop everything from social infrastructure to railways, roads, houses and airports. Causeway is fully committed to assisting companies in managing their cost programmes through our extensive range of software solutions."
