Awards Recognition for Causeway

Causeway has won two major awards at the Construction Computing Awards – IT Project of the Year (over 100 employees) in partnership with Sweett Group and, for the fourth year running, E-Commerce Product of the Year for the Causeway Tradex eTrading solution. In addition, Causeway was 'runner-up' in the Team of the Year category for its Customer Care team, as well as the Company of the Year and Estimation & Valuation Product of the Year categories.

The Construction Computing Awards showcase the industry's leading software providers and solutions, and the winners are decided by the readers of Construction Computing, customers of nominees and other construction professionals.

Causeway CEO Phil Brown commented: "This recognition from the construction professionals who use our software is testament to Causeway's ability to add value to its customers' businesses. The fact that the IT Project category was won in partnership with one of those customers – Sweett Group – is particularly gratifying. And the perennial success of Tradex in the strongly-contested E-Commerce category clearly illustrates our ability to deliver significant cost-savings for customers."
