New Look for Front Door Takes Off with Dragonfly

A happy customer of The Door Knocker Company shared her delight over one of the company's products with readers of her blog.

Kimberley Hughes decided on a makeover for the front door of her Manchester home and the star of the show turned out to be the dragonfly door knocker. Helped by careful positioning on a repainted door, the well proportioned door knocker has drawn many favourable comments.

In her Swoonworthy blog, Kimberley comments: "I had looked for ages for something a little bit different and The Door Knocker Company had so many lovely designs that it was a tough choice. Rachel, the owner, was so cool and helpful in her emails so I just wanted to pass along a big thank you to her!"

Other changes to the front door included replacing a brass number on the door with the number etched on to the transom, using film. Full details can be found at <http://www.swoonworthy.co.uk/2013/05/front-of-house-front-door-gets-its.html>

The Door Knocker Company offer a wide range of brass and iron architectural ironmongery for period home improvements and for refurbishments to other properties such as shops, hotels and theatres.
