

Press Release
9th February 2010

EnviroVent unveils new website

Sustainable ventilation manufacturer EnviroVent has revealed its new look website, which is now user friendly for the specifier, trade and consumer markets.

Since 1997, EnviroVent has supplied its sustainable ventilation products into hundreds of thousands homes across the UK. The new, revamped design of <http://www.envirovent.com> reflects the company's appeal into the various different sectors of the housing market and the company is now focused on sustaining its position as the top ventilation provider for the private residential property market in the UK.

The Specifier section provides users with a comprehensive guide to the building regulations and a handy 'upload your drawings' facility to enable specifiers to get a free quote. There are also details on EnviroVent's new Construction Division which provides a complete service solution, right through from design to installation.

The Installer & Trade area showcases EnviroVent's wide range of contactor ranges, while the Healthy Homes section provides home owners with all they need to know about the importance of good indoor air quality and the dramatic effects a good ventilation system can have on the health of the occupants and the fabric of the building.

Rebecca Marczak, marketing director at EnviroVent, said: "Our main aim for the website re-design was to make <http://www.envirovent.com> a first point of call for ventilation information and advice. Whether you're an expert in the trade, or a property owner who is looking for help with poor ventilation, we hope that the new site will tell visitors exactly what they need to know and who to talk to."

<http://www.envirovent.com> is linked to Twitter and Facebook. EnviroVent's blog is regularly updated with news from the company.

Ends