Forticrete awarded coveted accreditation by Building Confidence

Forticrete has been awarded the prestigious Building Confidence Accreditation standard by leading supply chain accreditation specialist, Achilles.

Widely recognised as the standard for continual improvement in the UK construction industry, the Achilles Building Confidence Accreditation provides a single supplier accreditation process, removing the need for duplicate information and audit requests between clients and suppliers.

John Lambert, general manager at Forticrete, commented: "Due to the ever increasing pressure to conduct a more consistent and robust accreditation process on supply chains, for companies like ourselves, to be accredited with Building Confidence is essential.

"Therefore, to have been recognised so enthusiastically yet again for our dedication to continuous improvement across the entire business is a fantastic achievement and safeguards our position on the procurement lists of some of the construction industry's biggest hitters."
