Furnitubes becomes BALI accredited

Furnitubes customers are further assured of the highest quality of workmanship, products, materials and health and safety practices, after the company gained British Association of Landscape Industries accreditation.

Founded in 1972, BALI is recognised as the leading trade association that represents all landscape professionals up and down the country, these include design, build and maintenance supply, training and education businesses.

The landscape services industry contributes to over £11bn to the UK annually and is known as the largest industry within the horticulture and landscaping sector.

BALI is committed to maintaining and improving the landscape sector and sets high standards for memberships. All registered members of the BALI network are individually assessed and therefore strive to deliver the highest standards within the industry.

Affiliate membership

As a BALI registered member Furnitubes is able to continually endeavour to provide the landscape sector with the highest quality products and materials. The new affiliate membership further assures our customers

As a long-established company supplying products to the landscape industry for many years, Furnitubes continues to strive to build long-term working relationships with its clients, who recognise that the company can be depended on throughout the design, construction and aftercare stages of all schemes it is part of.

The new affiliate BALI membership bolsters Furnitubes' partnership with landscape architects, contractors and designers.
