JTPumps moving forward from the success of supplying the 2012 London Olympics

JTPumps is both proud and privileged to have been a supplier to the 2012 London Olympics, providing the facility with both sewage pumping stations and water boosting equipment.

JTPumps is pleased to be moving forward from this success as their excellent levels of service, high standards of professionalism, expert knowledge and speedy service are being recognised by the Olympic Park.

The following testimonial from Rod Courts, Senior Site Manager at Balfour Beatty Workplace, illustrates the quality of JTPumps' service:

"I just thought I would drop a quick line to thank you for your supply & commissioning on my last project at the Olympic Park, I found your service impeccable.

"Delivery was without a hitch, equipment and drawings 'all in the box' and back-up on the end of the phone. Commissioning on the day agreed – no fuss, with your engineers more than happy to help and advise in all aspects of the task.

"I just wish we were able to engage other contractors like yourself who 'do what it says on the tin!'. Once again thanks for your help."

JTPumps is now again being asked to supply further pumping stations to the Olympic Park.
