New appointment sees familiar face at Metrotile

Mike Leigh has returned to Metrotile following an eight-year absence, bringing his decades of industry experience back to take on the new role of National Specifications Manager.

When discussing his appointment, Mike stated: "The family culture at Metrotile is an absolute joy to experience. Every member of the company is a dedicated and loyal friend to our customers, as well as colleagues.

"The focus on the single market sector of Lightweight Metal Roofing ensures every member of the team is a specialist in their role and dedicated to delivering the highest possible quality of products and services. It also means that we can provide our clients with a full complement of samples, literature and technical support.

"Metrotile is now the largest manufacturer of lightweight metal roof tiles in Europe, which means our purchasing power of steel is unrivalled. This allows us to offer our customers very high quality products and long guarantees for extremely competitive prices.

"Having returned to Metrotile from the former market leader, I'm particularly looking forward to getting back to providing first class, personal service to my specifying clients.

"My new role will enable me to offer 'Conception to Completion' service. From the initial project discussion, to specification, assistance with providing excellent contractors for tender, site visits and prompt issue of guarantees.

"The incredible improvements in product quality over the past few years has been a revelation to me and I now feel able to offer my clients a much wider choice of tile profiles at significantly better value. At Metrotile, we give our customers more for less.

"It's really great to be back and I look forward to helping turn the roofing evolution into the greatest roofing revolution of modern times."

Metrotile utilises various NBS services to deliver a full bespoke specification to clients as part of a drive to ensure industry-leading customer service from planning to post-installation (backed by a 40-year guarantee). Metrotile offers a full library of CAD, BIM objects and 3D renders to ensure specification is a smooth, hitch-free process.

Mike also presents Metrotile's RIBA-approved CPD seminar, 'Sustainable Lightweight Roofing Solutions'. To book this for your business, request a free no-obligation estimate or for any other enquiry contact Metrotile.
