Planet AG secures prestigious Chelsea project

Planet Architectural Glass is delighted to have been chosen to supply bespoke internal glazing to a new luxury residential development in the heart of one of London's most exclusive and historical neighbourhoods, Chelsea.

The Glebe site, which used to house an old school, is being transformed into a residential property that elegantly blends into the surrounding area.

Working under Main Contractor Brookfield Multiplex, Planet's Architectural Glass division will be installing a completely bespoke, marine grade stainless steel system at the new development which is being designed by a collaboration of London Architects & Interior Designers including Formation Architecture and Peter Rose + Partners.

The Glebe is even cited to overtake the world renowned One Hyde Park, Knightsbridge, as London's most sought-after address. The structure will encompass a range of properties, including apartments, a penthouse and two five-storey villas as well as leisure facilities, personal swimming pools and a below-ground car park.

This ambitious project will set a new standard in the luxury residential market in the capital and Planet Architectural Glass is thrilled to be involved in such an exciting development.
