Revetment Launches On-line DIY Flood Protection Store

With record-breaking rainfall in June and more forecast for this week, Revetment's launch of a new on-line DIY flood protection store is timely.

The company recommends that property owners carry out a full property survey before buying any flood products, but understands that many people just want the peace of mind of having a few simple-to-deploy items to hand.

The Revetment on-line shop can provide a cost-effective solution to worries about flash flooding. The range of products includes many that can quickly and easily be brought into action when heavy rain is on the way.

With most of the goods being held in stock for despatch within 48 hours, it is possible for people to react to a grim five-day weather forecast and find reassurance.

Revetment's flood protection products available through the on-line shop include door barriers, pumps, non-return valves, air brick covers and sand-less sandbags. Full information is given about installation procedures and how to measure for barriers. Payment methods are PayPal, cheques or bank transfers.

Where appropriate, the products carry the BSI PAS1188 certification required by most insurers. The shop is a way for people to be able to find low-cost solutions to protecting their own properties.

The on-line shop can be found by visiting www.revetment.uk.com and clicking the Shop tab at the top.

In addition to the on-line shop for DIY flood protection, Revetment offers a consultancy and bespoke solutions service for all types of building including industrial, retail and commercial.
