Space Air Welcomes Launch of Domestic RHI

Space Air has welcomed the long-awaited arrival of domestic RHI and is fully prepared for an expected uptake of renewable heat technologies, with its MCS certified Daikin Altherma air source heat pumps.

Mark Houghton, Commercial Director of Space Air Solutions Ltd, a wholly owned subsidiary of the UK Distributor Space Airconditioning plc, commented: "We expect the domestic RHI to further stimulate the take up of Daikin Altherma renewable heat technologies.

"The comprehensive range of MCS certified air source heat pumps are already selling well, particularly in areas that are off the mains gas grid. The RHI should extend the appeal of heat pumps to the gas boiler replacement market as well."

And customers now have an extra way of paying for their products and services from Space Airconditioning, as the company is now accepting American Express (Amex) cards.
