Tudor Roof Tiles acclaims ceramic temple by artist Sandy Brown

Tudor Roof Tiles is pleased to acclaim the fantastic ceramic temple, designed, built and exhibited by world-renowned artist Sandy Brown.

Not only was this made entirely by hand, Sandy created the world's largest single piece ceramic sculpture within a 12-month timeframe.

The 2,183 roof tiles were supplied by Tudor to Sandy's bespoke size and texture. These, along with the 3,017 wall and floor tiles were hand painted with glaze, then attached to the handmade framework.

Sandy Brown's Temple is acknowledged as making a profound impact on contemporary ceramics. It was exhibited in Sotheby's 'Beyond Limits' at Chatsworth House last autumn.
