

Press Release
21st August 2008

EnviroVent Revamps CPD Seminars

A New Experience in Continual Professional Development

Harrogate based ventilation manufacturers EnviroVent have given their CPD Seminars on sustainable and energy efficient ventilation solutions a revamp. The highly informative seminars include the key subjects of poor indoor air quality, the effects on human health and the impact ventilation has on our environment.

"Combining the benefits of well-designed eco-friendly solutions, with relevant know-how on current legislation, these seminars provide a good opportunity for industry professionals to broaden their knowledge of this ever more important subject." said Marketing Manager, Rebecca Marczak.

Two of the seminars are focused towards ventilation strategies to meet new build construction; one covering Building Regulations for England, Part F & L, Health and Environmental Issues, whilst the other covers Parts 3 & 6 of the Scottish Building Regulations. The remaining two seminars focus predominantly on social housing and health related issues, Ventilation & Sustainability in the Real World, which debuted at the Climate Change Conference in London, received an extremely positive response.

EnviroVent is a fully accredited CPD organisation and seminars normally take place over the lunch hour, catering is included and all attendees receive a Certified CPD Certificate.

Ends

For further information:

EnviroVent Ltd.

Contact: Gina Graydon,

Tel: 01423 810810

Fax: 01423 810910

Email: ggraydon@envirovent.com