New CPD seminar at Climate Change Conference

Climate Change Conference Enthusiastic about New CPD Seminar

EnviroVent targeted the 2008 Climate Change Conference held at the Barbican in London as the platform to deliver a freshly revamped CPD – Ventilation and Sustainability in the Real World. The CPD covers relevant topics ranging from the definition of sustainability to domestic ventilation in the real world and the effect it is having on the UK environment. There was an enormous amount of encouraging feedback from a newly informed audience.

Following the buzz that the seminar has created, the company is looking forward to encouraging further industry professionals to enhance their existing knowledge and standards by taking part in this informative CPD presentation.
